BBA/IB Department Report on Group Discussion

Date: 27/12/2022.

A session on 'Group Discussion' was conducted on the 24th of December 2022. The session was conducted in the Hall MPI-01. Prof.Patil J.M. was the Facilitator for the session. Prof. Shelke K.Y. was the Co-ordinator for the program. The session was attended by 15 students.

The objectives of the session were as follows:

- 1.To conduct a group discussion among the students
- 2.To observe their personality and skills, ability to discuss on the given subject
- 3.To guide them on how to take part in Group Discussions.

The session opened with the 'Self Introduction' of students. The topic given was "Digital Literacy: Benefits and Drawbacks?".The students were given 5 minutes to think over the topic before beginning with the discussion.

The group discussion lasted for about 30 - 40 minutes. The highlights of the discussion was as follows:

- 1. There was an initiator who was also a dominator in the group.
- 2. The group discussion was in English Language.
- 3. There were few silent observers who didn't involve in discussion.
- 4. Some students were fumbling for vocabulary.
- 5. Students could highlight many important facts and figures pertaining to the topic.

After observing and listening the discussion of students, it was evident that the students are little bit aware about the do's and don'ts of the GD. Hence, the session was successfully completed.

A Lecture on Stress Management Report Page-1

Date: 27-1-2023

PDEA's Annasaheb Magar College Hadapsar, Pune- 28 Department of Psychology Stress Management Lecture Academic Year 2022-23

On 26th January 2023 Psychology Department organize stress management lecture for BA psychology students. Psychology Department organize stress management rectain for teach various stress management techniques to students. Total 52 students from whole B.A. faculty were present for this lecture. Students actively participate in this session activities, and positively respond to questions were ask by teachers.

Stress management includes self-care, managing one's response to stress, and making life changes when in a stressful situation. The benefits of stress management include good mental health, clear cognition, and reduced blood pressure. Following point Prof. Sangita Deokar mention in his session.

The most frequent reasons for "stressing out" fall into three main categories: 1, the unsettling effects of change 2. The feeling that an outside force is challenging or threatening you 3. The effects of change 2. The feeling that an outside force is challenging or threatening you 3. The feeling that you have lost personal control. Life events such as marriage, changing jobs, divorce, or the death of a relative or friend are the most common causes of stress. Although life-threatening events are less common, they can be the most physiologically and psychologically acute. They are usually associated with public service career fields in which people experience intense stress levels because of imminent danger and a high degree of uncertainty—police officer, fire and rescue worker, emergency relief worker, and the military. You may not plan to enter a high-stress career, but as a college student, you may find that the demands of college life can create stressful situations. can create stressful situations.

The National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) notes some of the more common stressors for college students: • Increased academic demands • Being on your own in a new environment • Changes in family relations • Financial responsibilities • Changes in your social life • Exposure to new people, ideas, and temptations • Awareness of your sexual identity and orientation • Preparing for life after graduation.

Symptoms of Distress:-

Symptoms of stress fall into three general, but interrelated, categories—physical, mental, and emotional. Review this list carefully. If you find yourself frequently experiencing these symptoms, you are likely feeling distressed • Headaches • Fatigue • Gastrointestinal problems • Hypertension (high blood pressure) • Heart problems, such as palpitations • Inability to focus/lack of concentration • Sleep disturbances, whether it's sleeping too much or an inability to sleep • Sweating palms/shaking hands • Anxiety • Sexual problems.

Even when you do not realize it, stress can cause or contribute to serious physical disorders. It increases hormones such as adrenaline and corticosterone, which affect your metabolism, immune reactions, and other stress responses. That can lead to increases in your heart rate, respiration, blood pressure, and physical demands on your internal organs.

Behavioral changes are also expressions of stress. They can include • Irritabili eating patterns (overeating or under eating) • Harsh treatment of others • Incr alcohol consumption.

• Isolation • Compulsive shopping. A sustained high level of stress is It can affect every area of your life—productivity in the workplace and cl health risks, and relationships, to name just a few.

Managing Stress

As noted in the Introduction, you can learn to manage stress. The first s yourself better-how you react in different situations, what causes you stress, and re behave when you feel stressed. Once you've done that, take the following steps: Set priorities. Use the time-management tips you learned in Section 1. Make a To-Do list. Decide what is important to get done today, and what can wait. This helps you to know that you are working on your immediate priorities, and you do not have the stress of trying to remember what you should be doing. Practice facing stressful moments. Think about the event or situation you expect to face and rehearse your reactions. Find ways to practice dealing with the challenge. If you know that speaking in front of a group frightens you, practice doing it, perhaps with a trusted friend or fellow student. If the pressure of taking tests causes you to freeze up, buy some practice tests at the school bookstore or online and work with them when there are no time pressures. Examine your expectations. Try to set realistic goals. It's good to push yourself to achieve, but make sure your expectations are realistic. Watch out for perfectionism. Be satisfied with doing the best you can. Nobody's perfect—not you, not your fellow Cadet, nobody. Allow people the liberty to make mistakes, and remember that mistakes can be a good teacher. Live a healthy lifestyle. Get plenty of exercise. Eat healthy foods. Allow time for rest teacher. Live a healthy lifestyle. Get plenty of exercise. Eat healthy foods. Allow time for rest and relaxation. Find a relaxation technique that works for you—prayer, yoga, meditation, or breathing exercises. Look for the humor in life, and enjoy yourself. Learn to accept change as a part of life. Nothing stays the same. Develop a support system of friends and relatives you can talk to when needed. Believe in yourself and your potential. Remember that many people from disadvantaged backgrounds have gone on to enjoy great success in life. At the same time, avoid those activities that promise release from stress while actually adding to it. Drinking alcohol (despite what all those TV commercials imply), drinking caffeine, smoking, using narcotics (including marijuana), and overeating all add to the body's stress in addition to their other harmful effects. Here are some other strategies for dealing with stress: • Schedule time other harmful effects. Here are some other strategies for dealing with stress: • Schedule time for vacation, breaks in your routine, hobbies, and fun activities. • Try to arrange for uninterrupted time to accomplish tasks that need your concentration. Arrange some leisure time uninterrupted time to accompissit assist that need your concentration. Attaings some reside time during which you can do things that you really enjoy. • Avoid scheduling too many appointments, meetings, and classes back-to-back. Allow breaks to catch your breath. Take a few slow, deep breaths whenever you feel stressed. Breathe from the abdomen and, as you exhale, silently say to yourself, "I feel calm." • Become an expert at managing your time. Read books, view videos, and attend seminars on time management. Once you cut down on time wasters, you'll find more time to recharge yourself. • Learn to say "no." Setting limits can minimize stress. Spend time on your main responsibilities and priorities rather than allowing other people's priorities or needs to dictate how you spend your time. • Exercise regularly to reduce muscle tension and promote a sense of well-being. • Tap into your support network. Family, friends, and social groups can help when dealing with stressful events.

Psychology Prof. Ashwini Doke was present for this lecture, Principal Dr. Nitin Ghorpade guide for made this program more valuable.
